Name of the event: Hand Hygiene and Child Health Awareness Programme

Date: 03/04/2024

Venue: Lohat

Organizer: Eco Club and Social Outreach Cell under the aegis of IQAC, Deshabandhu Mahavidyalaya in Collaboration with Samdi Panchayat

Report:

On April 3, 2024, 19 students and 6 faculty members from Deshabandhu Mahavidyalaya visited Lohat village to conduct a "Hand Hygiene and Child Health Awareness Programme." The team arrived at 11 AM, ready to educate the villagers about the importance of hand hygiene for children's health.

The volunteers split into groups and visited different households in the village. The student volunteers spoke to the children, explaining why washing hands is important. They showed the children how to wash their hands properly to keep germs away and stay healthy.

Meanwhile, the faculty members talked with the parents about why hand hygiene is crucial for their children's health. They gave practical tips on how to make sure everyone in the family washes their hands regularly.

To support the lessons on hand hygiene, the team gave soaps to the children. The active participation of the students and faculty members, combined with the enthusiastic response from the villagers, contributed to the overall effectiveness of the initiative. The villagers were highly receptive to the discussions and responded very positively to the information shared. They expressed gratitude for the valuable insights and practical tips on maintaining hygiene and health. The engagement between the volunteers and the villagers fostered a sense of community and mutual respect, making the program not only educational but also a bonding experience.
