Report

On March 13, 2024, the National Social Service (NSS) unit of Deshabandhu Mahavidyalaya organized an Electoral Awareness Programme in Kundal Para, an adopted village under the Achra Gram Panchayat. The initiative aimed to educate and motivate the villagers about the importance of participating in the electoral process.

A dedicated team of 25 volunteers embarked on this mission, visiting every household in the village to spread awareness about the election process and the significance of voting rights. The volunteers were well-prepared and carried informative materials, including pamphlets and posters, to effectively communicate their message.

The door-to-door campaign was met with enthusiastic participation from the villagers. The local residents were cooperative and proactive, engaging in discussions with the volunteers. They showed a keen interest in understanding the electoral process and expressed their willingness to participate in the upcoming elections.

During the campaign, the volunteers emphasized the power of voting in a democracy and how each vote contributes to shaping the future of the nation. They also addressed common misconceptions and answered questions related to voter registration and the importance of making informed choices at the ballot box.

In addition to the door-to-door visits, the volunteers organized a small gathering in the village center where they conducted interactive sessions and role-plays to further illustrate the voting process. This approach helped in breaking down any remaining barriers to understanding and participation.

The programme concluded with a sense of accomplishment and optimism. Prof. Tirtha Mondal, who supervised the event, commended the volunteers for their dedication and the villagers for
